VEST DANCE

The look of enjoyment.

Just arriving.

Dancing the evening away.

Senior Social Committee Chairman and her date.
"Please, Mother, I'd rather do it myself!"

"Thought you could get away with stealing a whole band!"

"I'd lik' a for see Meester Brad'."

"The next thing he'll be having is a lawyer."

"But I know who stole the band!"

"Don't you dare hold me! I hate you!"
"If that's on the level, then I teach geometry."

PLAY

The class of 1965 took great pride in the presentation of its senior play. On the evenings of January 7th and 8th the auditorium doors swung open to capacity crowds. Each evening the hilarious performance of the three act comedy, "What a Life," was viewed with zestful enthusiasm.

Mr. Louis Marshall was the faculty director of the play. To his delight and to that of the entire cast's, this year's play was the most financially successful one in Coventry High's history.

"O praise the Lord, all ye nations!"

"You wouldn't like to buy a tennis racket, would you?"

"I ought to knock your block off."

"I'm tired of being treated like a lamp post."

"Mr. Louis Marshall, the faculty director of the play, was delighted alongside the entire cast as "What a Life" was well received by capacity crowds."
Although listed as just another activity, the Student Council is much more than that. It is the representative organ of the entire school. Being composed of students from every grade level, the Council carefully weighs all matters that merit the interest of the student body and faculty alike. It can be truthfully stated that without the Student Council there would probably be no clubs or special activities, nor would students have a voice in matters concerning decisions made by the administration.

Coventry High School's Student Council is an outstanding exemplification of democracy in practice. Is it also one of the most excellent student councils in the state, and as such, deserves the support of all who benefit from its labors.

Cheer, all you Oakers, the time has come.
The struggle's over, and the game is won.
Our players garbed in red and white
Lead us to victory in the fight.
They play the game like olympians.
Hail them now as our champions.
It doesn't matter what the sport
As long as the team plays with our support.
On the next few sport-filled pages
Lend your cheerful, gameful gazes.

The next few pages of this book,
   Where many fail to stop and look,
Are simply filled with tremendous sales.
   Don’t rush through, read the details.
Through these pages you’ll want to hunt,
   You may have been caught by our own Allen Funt.
Don’t be surprised if you find yourself
   Searching for goods from some grocery shelf.
You may not think that ads are exciting.
   But if you’re in the picture, they may be inviting.

Candids

I don't mind cooking this stuff, but when it comes to eating it . . .

Darelius strikes again!

Get out and hand over your valuables and you won't get hurt.

Kisses, 5 for $1.00.
At the threshold of life we now stand.
Before us lies fortune's wonderland.
Dare we enter this world unknown?
Yes, we must and quite alone.
Numerous professions await our arrival.

Society's pressures will test our survival.
In this adult world of independence.
We enter with the gift of intelligence
In our hands. To mold the future is our task
So that posterity shall see freedom grow and last.

Cora Fairman
SUPPLEMENT
The Grand March of the Class of 1965

The Grand March proceeds.

Singing the Alma Mater.
SENIOR BALL

Culminating our four years at Coventry High School, the Senior Ball was held at Rhodes on the Pawtuxet on June 4, 1965. In our hearts it will always remain an unforgettable occasion.
Mr. Moores gives a gift to Linda.

Elephants are distributed.
On June 14, our class held one of its last formal get-togethers, the Senior Banquet. Before yearbooks were distributed, Linda Anderson, Editor-in-Chief of the yearbook, announced and presented the dedication to Mr. Louis Marshall.
Mr. Cooper addresses present and future seniors.

Linda Anderson reads her introduction to the yearbook.

Mr. Searle prepares to speak to the assembly.

Roger Warrender announces the superlatives.

Linda Anderson reads her introduction to the yearbook.

Seniors listen solemnly as the ceremonies commence.

The class of 1965 proudly marches into Class Day.

Coventry High School's "barber shop quartet" belts out a tune.

Traditional signing of yearbooks follows the ceremonies.
GRADUATION

The day we had all been waiting for had finally arrived, but we seemed to feel an unexpected sadness for the occasion. Nevertheless, as parents and friends looked on, we proudly received our diplomas on Graduation Day, June 16, 1965.

A final glimpse of the graduating class.

Graduating members of the boys' chorus lift their voices in song.

Departing words from our class president.

The end of one life—the beginning of another.
