Working Times

Annually many Coventry High School students seek jobs to finance their school "necessities" such as clothes, cars, and the ever necessary car insurance. They found new job opportunities at the new Subway sandwich shop on Tiogue Avenue. However, students that received these jobs were few because of the rush of applications Subway received. Another new job opportunity was the A & W Restaurant in West Warwick that opened up in the summer of 1989. A & W employs many Coventry High School students. In addition to those places of employment, C.H.S. students work in many businesses along Tiogue Avenue. These businesses include McDonald's, K-Mart, Newport Creamery, and Coventry Health Center. The malls have always boasted job opportunities with stores like Chess King, Record Town, and Sears hiring students. So the problem of teens working is not finding a job, but fitting in with the responsibility of a job.

Speed Into ... The Nineties

It is obvious that cars are a huge factor in the life of a C.H.S. student. On a trip through the school parking lot, one will see many kinds of cars. From the gas-guzzling hot rod to mom's station wagon, virtually all makes and models are seen. Our cars take us to and from school, to jobs, and for all types of recreational rides. The only negative part to owning a car, aside from insurance, gas, and other expenses, is the parking at C.H.S. With over-crowded conditions, parking spaces are limited. At one time we had to park on a dirt area, which has since been surfaced. The feeling of walking from one's car into school at 7:00 a.m. as cars blow dust into your face is like no other.

Fashion Trends

Although everyone's style is unique, many definite fashion trends have emerged. Vests, baggy pants, and Adidas windbreakers were just a few of the more sought-after items this year. Many guys were seen sporting shirts with brightly-colored logos such as Vuarner, and Ocean Pacific. The fashion necessity for girls was a sweatshirt depicting colleges from URI to UCLA. The hair trends for girls were longer styles adorned with bright headbands and other accessories; guys also grew out their spiked styles. While L.A. Gear and Keds were favorite sneakers for girls, guys tended to prefer Nike Air and British Knights. Of course these fashion trends could only be seen on certain days. For most of us, jeans and tee-shirts were the fashion trend simply because that was the first outfit we could find in the morning!

Hold On To The Nights

The queen and her court: Tina Harpin, Brooke Tobin, Renee Piana, Molly Opiekum, Jennifer Cart, last year's queen Jessica Eastman, and class president Lisa Moore.

Many members of the class of 1990 attended the Junior Prom on May 6, 1989. It was held at the Rocky Point Palladium from 8:00 - 12:00 P.M. As we entered the Palladium, we immediately noticed the beautiful, sparkling decorations like the ice sculpture, the giant golden moon, and the endless amount of balloons covering the ceiling. Soon after we arrived, the queen's court was announced. Jen Carter, Molly Opiekum, Renee Piana, and Brooke Tobin made up the court and Tina Harpin was crowned Prom Queen. The rest of the evening was left to dinner and dancing. The theme Hold on To The Night was appropriate as this was a night we will always remember.

CLASS WILL

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: THAT WE THE CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED AND NINETY, BEING IN GOOD HEALTH AND SOUND OF MIND AND MEMORY, ASSEMBLE AND WRITE THIS OUR LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT.

IN WITNESS THEREFORE, WE HAVE HERE UNTO SET OUR HAND AND SEAL: AND DECLARE THIS TO BE OUR LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT, THIS NINTH DAY OF JUNE, ONE THOUSAND, NINE HUNDRED AND NINETY.

National Honor Society Class of 1990

The Honors Society is a prestigious group that acknowledges student achievement in academics. Students who achieve the necessary academic standards for admission to the Rhode Island and National Honor Societies must apply and be elected to membership by a faculty council on the basis of the additional qualities of character, leadership, and service. Students are eligible to apply for membership as juniors or seniors based on their career grade point averages figured at the third quarter of the junior and senior year. It encompasses the cumulative grades for each subject taken during the student's high school career. With the grading system that was begun at the beginning of the 1987 school year, each grade received was weighted differently increasing the GPA needed for admission to the Honors Society. For the class of 1990 a 3.50 was needed for admission in grade 11 and a 3.30 was needed for admission in grade 12. For the classes of 1991 and beyond, a 3.65 was needed for admission in the junior year and in the senior year a 3.40 will be needed for admission to the Honors Society.

To All Posterity

Eunice, the yearbook elf, toad stool, etc., put out a simple request to the seniors of CHS: define posterity. A precious few defined it correctly; some had a vague idea of the word's meaning; and still others got creative:

posterity (the Coventry definition) noun 1. Something to help hemorrhoids. 2. Extra-short people to trip. 3. A hunchback. 4. Being nice to posters.

posterity (the dictionary definition) noun the offspring of one progenitor to the furthest generation: DESCENDENTS.

This has hopefully been a learning experience for all!

The Unheard Clamor

Standing in absolute silence —
 open mouth ...
 silence — just breathing
 a pouring out of the soul
 screaming in pain ...
 but no words, no words
 no sound, no sound
 an unutterable whisper of crying
 Yet its whole purpose was to cry out for help
 But there seemed to be no one ... no one
 Not a soul to listen, to understand
 No open mind, no hearing ear, no seeing eye

A blank world with a vacant heart unsympathetic to the lonely one's suffering
 A saline tear catching the light of a ghostly full moon
 While wandering down the pallid cheek of the hurting one;
 a singular and valuable diamond dangling
 from a finely chiseled chin
 but the only one . . . a lonely one
 The one sign that dared to venture out into the world of carelessness, that dared to show itself . . .
 its very vulnerable self
 This was its scream---
 Its silent whisper of pain in nothing
 a secret sound that no one cared to hear

"The Relationship Between Movie Rental and Religion"

— Yes, it sounds like the title of a bad term paper, but the second survey sent out to seniors did question students as to their religious and movie viewing tendencies. The 60 percent who said they would rather rent movies have surely been influenced by the recent and enormous popularity of video cassette players; yet the traditionalists who prefer the feel of the movie theater remain a strong minority force at 40 percent. The class was split in half as concerns religion: 53 percent answered "YES" they do, and 47 percent, "NO" they don't, hold strong religious beliefs. The class was almost exactly divided on both these "issues" of liberal and conservative attitudes. Is there a correlation here? ... We can only speculate!

It's 10:00. Do you know where your children are?

The second survey also inquired as to just where seniors spend their free time. In order of decreasing popularity, the following were the most popular hang-outs: 1.) a friend's house, 2.) wherever, 3.) the mall, 4.) L.A. Beach Club, and 5.) the movies. People also admitted to spending lots of time at work, at home, or in their car! Others pass time in the Guidance Office, at fast food restaurants (B.K. and McD's), at the library, or in Providence. Then we also have those in our class — you know who they are — who told us they frequent Wonderland and Candyland, who hang out in the forest and in cemeteries, and who confess to spending much time at Coventry's own "chicken infirmary" . . . You figure it out!!

Odd Notes

Ever listen to a satanic polka? Apparently one senior has done just that-- and enjoyed it! Actually, outside of common rock music, the most listened to music among 108 surveyed seniors was as follows: classical (31 percent), punk (27 percent), rap (16 percent), funk (8 percent), post-modern (7 percent), and folk (6 percent). One person, surely brainwashed by the phys. ed. department's two-week course in "American culture," voted for ... square-dancing music. Other kinds of music mentioned included country, jazz, heavy metal, reggae, and industrial. The surveys revealed our class to be one of very diverse musical tastes, a medley of interests! Yet now we can almost hear the graduation march: on June 9 we finally march together to the beat of the same drummer, who, sad to say, probably won't be playing a polka!--E.B.

History of the Class of 1990

It seems as if Coventry High School began when the Class of 1990 entered its doors in September of 1986. Even as freshmen we were confident, not the typical self-doubting fourteen-year olds that were usually called "freshmen." Yes, some of us did fall for the third floor pool thing and, okay, we may have gotten lost our first few days. None of this, however, could disturb the unshakable confidence of the Class of 1990. With this confidence in mind, we elected the strong leadership of Bridget Gallogly as our class president. She, along with our advisor Mrs. Tracy and our other class officers, made our freshmen year great. They planned the Freshmen Dance held on May 29, 1987; it was a fantastic time for all who went. Meeting upperclassmen, relatively easy classes (compared to what was ahead), dressing up, and making new friends made our freshman year a unique experience.

Although our freshman year was eventful, none of us minded becoming sophomores. Our sophomore year was a year of relaxation. In that spirit we elected Andrea Truppa as our class president with Mrs. Ricci as our advisor. The year was full of change as we took driver's education and PSAT'S for the first time (and not the last for many of us!). The Class of 1990 began their involvement in clubs and in the honors program. We also began to learn the ways of the school, catching on to various ways of getting out of classes such as field trips, yearbook pictures, and late days. The guys in our class were especially changing finally getting as tall as the girls in our class. We also changed because we were no longer the target of upperclassmen taunts; we took it upon ourselves to torture the Class of 1991. Basically the sophomore year was the calm before the storm, that is, the JUNIOR year!!

Our junior year was a year of chaos and stress. We made academic decisions ranging from attending the Voc-Tech to electing honors classes. The pressures of difficult classes (the Pikes), SAT's and other college entrance worries, piles of homework, and parental pressures began to take their toll on the Class of 1990. There were a few bright spots to our junior year such as our class rings, our first jobs, our first cars (and probably only car), and our driver's license. Another bright spot was the junior prom on May 6, 1989 planned by Lisa Moore our class president, the junior class officers, and our advisor Mrs. Cyr. The officers also helped in the planning of the Class Day Ceremonies where the Class of 1990 turned their class rings and officially became seniors.

After the stressful junior year, we expected our senior year to be a breeze! Unfortunately, we had forgotten about college applications (those essays!), our teachers and homework, jobs, and our extracurricular activities. In our clubs and sports, we had reached a position of power as either officers or influential members. It seems that our class matured in more ways than just in responsibility; we loosened our cliques and became more socially mature. The Class of 1990 became more self-righteous in their fight for senior privileges. Perhaps it was the result of the "inspirational" senior assembly that all underclassmen can look forward to tolerating. On May 18, 1990 we attended the senior ball and had a great time. On Class Day our class put on their graduation caps and gowns, and relinquished our power as seniors to the Class of 1991. On June 9, 1990 The Class of 1990 graduated at the Warwick Musical Theatre. Our class is unique and will always be remembered at Coventry High School for its great accomplishments. Congratulations to the graduating Class of 1990!!!!

Zombieland. The news is out! The realm of the living dead has been officially relocated to Coventry High! Slouched in doorways or wandering aimlessly, the zombies make their daily visit to CHS. The fact that school begins at 7:35 A.M. probably contributes to the infectious yawning and eye-rubbing evident midst the school population. Contrary to such obvious signs of exhaustion, the results of the second senior survey indicated that the average senior gets 7 hrs., 23 min. of sleep on an average school night. Of course, the 108 seniors who filled out the surveys in January may just have been the only ones awake that morning in home-room; perhaps the other 2/3 of the class (the zombies?) could not even manage to read the survey due to SLEEP DEPRIVATION. Thus, we may never know how much sleep, if any, these people get: the mystery of the high school zombies continues.---E.B.

Dawn breaks through with a splash of peach;
 The sky is a land of enchantment.
 The deep blue of the night before lingers,
 only to be tamed into violet.
 distant clouds sweep through the background,
 as a glowing moon prepares to fade for the day.
 A few golden rays show their power
 as hints of the melting warmth of morning.
 Sparkling dew drops lie on glossy leaves
 while the last of a light mist floats tenderly by.
 The crisp air carries its sweet scent through gardens of imagination,
 hoping to reach the senses of the newly awakened.
 time passes quickly as the sky blushes
 and the symphony of the aurora begins.
 Its echoes are heard daily . . .
 through the song of the morn. ---Sophia

The Driver's License

Possibly the greatest part of the junior year occurs outside of school -getting the driver's license! Many juniors dream about the day that they can drive themselves around. They begin by taking drivers' education and receiving their driving permit. Then the day that they turn sixteen years old, they are able to take the driver's test at the Registry of Motor Vehicles. After taking a very nerve-racking test (or driving around the block), the junior can obtain his license with probably the ugliest photograph they will ever take. The lucky junior may then get a car, but might also continue to ride the bus with everyone else.

Staying Awake in Class

One of the greatest problems a junior faces is staying awake in class. The junior year is perhaps the most important of one's academic career; it can make or break one's chances for college. U.S. History, English, math and science courses require maximum amounts of homework. The junior often pulls all-nighters in order to meet classwork deadlines. Extracurriculars keep us busy, as well as those after school jobs. It seems there is no other time, except after midnight, to do homework. Soda, vivarin and the ever faithful coffee have been our saviors, helping us to stay awake during school and at night. Juniors take heart, the senior year is on the way.

Lunch Time!

The typical junior can accomplish a lot in twenty-five minutes, contrary to popular belief. In the twenty-five minute lunch period a junior can accomplish many amazing things. First, the student must fight through a crowd of other hungry students for fourteen minutes in order to get a lunch. Then in the final ten minutes this student is able to complete his homework assignment for the next class, eat his lunch, and talk with his friends. Students, throughout the entire day, anxiously wait for this twenty-five minute lunch break in order to relax and relax by staying very active and by accomplishing a variety of wondrous feats!

Survey Stuff

According to our survey the two most important items in the life of a junior are working and owning a car. 72% of the juniors responding to our poll stated they had a job. 40% percent stated they owned a car. Obviously many work to support their car. It must be fed a steady diet of gas and those unbelievable insurance bills must be paid! In addition, 8% admitted they dyed or bleached their hair. Since we did not have a male or female check off box on the survey, we can only wonder how many of the junior guys fall into this 8% category. Finally, 36% of the responding juniors knew the correct answer to our question of "What is posterity?" Most did not know that their answers to our questions were to be left to posterity!

What is a Junior

By definition a Junior is a student in their third year of study in a four year high school. Is that all there is to us or is their deeper meaning to who we are? The answer is yes! The junior year is a year of separation. A large number of our class opt to attend West Bay and are part of us only during something called time-about. This separation makes unity difficult. As juniors we begin to take leading roles in sports and extracurricular activities, preparing for those leadership roles of the senior year. We over-extend ourselves in honors courses, make preliminary career choices, and think ahead about college and technical schools. Juniors are a complex and competitive group.

What is Posterity?

In our survey the yearbook elf, Eunice, asked a serious question: what is posterity? As reported on page 87, 36% of the juniors surveyed knew the correct answer. In fact the juniors ranked number one in correct responses to this question. The other three classes combined had only a 43% correct response rate. Congratulations juniors, you knew that posterity is a noun that means succeeding generations, descendants, and what you leave to the future. However, not every junior was sure what this word meant. Some confused it with posterior, postulate and posture. Good posture, forever, prosperity, and posters tending not to stick on walls were some of the favorite incorrect answers.

The False Alarm

Beep! Beep! Beep! - You would really like to knock your alarm clock into the next century this morning. It's Monday and its cold outside. "9 degrees" reads the bank thermometer on the way to school. The weatherman on the radio reports a wind chill factor of minus 20 degrees. Yes, this one is a cold day! You dash into school relieved by the warmth. Carrying only the necessary books you stroll into the cafeteria when BUZZZ - the fire alarm sounds. You automatically head for the nearest exit, but you can't seem to re-enter that winter wonderland without your Eskimo parka and earmuffs. A fire drill before school in this weather? You think this must be a grave mistake.

The Fire Alarm

However, teachers donned their winter coats soon arrive and dutifully herd you and your reluctant classmates outside. For the next ten minutes, although it seems like an eternity, you stand and shiver and watch your friends turn varying shades of blue. Finally, the bell rings eliciting the greatest unison sign of relief of CHS history. It was a false alarm! Needless to say on Monday, December 4, 1989 all Oakers were wide awake for homeroom and first period.

The Brown Book Cover

The book cover is definately one of the biggest scientific break-throughs of all time. Not only does it make all of your books look the same, it helps you to get rid of all those brown paper bags you were saving. They are also great for getting you detention when teachers notice that you don't happen to have one on a book. We have been led to believe that brown pieces of paper wrapped around a book will save it from all harm, even that dreaded water puddle. In my honest opinion, the only things book covers are good for are drawing and doodling when you are bored and depressed.

The Future of Book Covers

The future of the brown bag book cover is bleak, to say the least. Where are we to get them? They are becoming scarce, perhaps even a collectors item. As more and more stores use plastic grocery bags, we must look to alternatives. Can you imagine trying to cover your book with a plastic bag? It just won't work! What are we to do? Newspaper simply does not work. It lasts one day at best. Perhaps we can use clear plastic wrap or aluminum foil! Manufactured book covers are not the answer either. Just try to find a place to write on them. Without the brown bag book cover, we will not be able to doodle. We may be forced to pay attention in class.

Sophomoric Activities

Sophomores seem to be the class that gets involved in the most school activities. There are several reasons why this is so. As freshmen, you really didn't know which activities to be involved in; but after taking your first step up the high school ladder, you have a better idea of which clubs attract your friends. You're finally oriented with the school atmosphere and formed your social groups. You've also had a full year to look over your options. Armed with a driver's license, you can stay after school and get involved. As the class in the middle, neither freshman nor upper class, sophomores are the ones who try to be a part of everything.

What is a Sophomore?

There are many major differences between sophomores and freshmen. A sophomore tends to be more active as a joiner in sports and clubs. Tenth graders are more secure about themselves. They know the school environment better and know where everything is located, even the third floor swimming pool. After learning from the mistakes of their freshmen year, sophomores appear to be more mature in their actions. Experience has taught them dearly. They know more about specific groups in the school and are able to decide which group they want to join and belong to for the remainder of their high school career. Sophomores have left the protection of ninth grade and must learn to cope with new demands on their time and energies while beginning the process of growing up!

To Whom It May Concern

We, the willing,
Led by the unknowing,
Are doing the impossible
For the ungrateful.
We have done so much,
For so long, with so little,
That we are now
Qualified to do anything
With nothing.

The Art of Procastination

Everyone always thinks, "Oh, I have another four weeks," when questioned as to the progress of their term paper. How long could it possibly take to scribble a few notes on some 4"x6" cards? Yet when the "crunch" inevitably comes, we find ourselves wildly racing to libraries wracking our brains for a topic and scouring the shelves for works written on the topic we thought would be so easy to research. At last the weekend before the final paper is due arrives and we regret having chosen the television over the word processor for Christmas. Happily, however, we finish the paper. As we turn in the notorious paper we make the vow bound to broken: Next time I'll start early.

What is Posterity

In our survey the yearbook elf, Eunice, asked a serious question: what is posterity? As reported on page 103, 20 percent of the sophomores surveyed knew the correct answer: posterity is a noun that means "succeeding generations or descendants . . ." This was sufficient for the sophomores to rank second in correct responses to this question. However, most sophomores could not correctly define the word. They confused it with faith, posture, prosperity and society. Other definitions included "jellybeans", "to be with nature", and "for all time." Little did they know that their answers were to be their legacy to CHS posterity.

The Chase, Part I

There is nothing more nauseating than the tactics used by a lovesick girl to entrap the one she longs to call her beau.

This girl, who has probably reached the "sour" age of 16, has become obsessed with the search for him who will spend all of eternity with her. This "Cinderella" intends to have her overly soggy heart melted by the suave voice of "Prince Charming." Surely, she is aware that the object of her desire knows little of her existence. The subtle methods she resorts to often get little attention from her perfect one, though he really does not mind, because his ego can use more inflating.
